Communications.

To Gus Grower:

The attention of our citizens, desiring to have their names respectfully called to the proper organization of the town, is called to the fact that the work of organization is in full swing. It is obvious to both the contractors of the town and the people, that the work must be done in a manner that will be acceptable to all.

A committee, consisting of Messrs. Smith, Johnson, and Brown, has been appointed to superintend the work of organization. They will take charge of the necessary arrangements, and it is expected that the work will be completed in a short time.

Harvesting in Wisconsin.

The weather here (Aug. 14) is very fine and cool. Harvesting will be very early this year. The crops are growing rapidly, and it is expected that the harvest will be abundant. The country is abounding in corn and oats, and the farmers are well supplied with hay and grain.

The workers are busy reaping the corn and oats, and the machinery is in good order. The weather is favorable, and it is expected that the harvest will be completed in a short time.

The market is doing well, and the prices are satisfactory. The farmers are well supplied with grain, and the prices are high.

The town is in a flourishing condition, and the prospects are bright for future prosperity.

Delaware.

Though this State is one of the smallest in the Union, it is rich in resources, and has a population of about 100,000. The State is divided into five counties, viz., Kent, New Castle, Sussex, Kent, and Sussex. The capital is Dover, and the Legislature consists of a Senate and a House of Representatives.

The government of the State is republican, and the States are represented in Congress by two Senators and one Representative.

The State has a fine system of public schools, and the public education is well maintained.

The capital, Dover, is a thriving town, and the State is fast becoming a great manufacturing and trading center.
