THE LIBERATOR.

ANTI-SLAVERY BAZAAR.

The National Anti-Slavery Bazaar was opened at the Chamber of Commerce, Boston, on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 14th, under the management of the National Anti-Slavery Society. The lecture room was ornamented with colored flags and American banners, and the seats were filled before the doors were opened. The hall was divided into a series of halls and rooms, each of which was decorated with the flags and banners of the Union, and adorned with paintings and engravings. The rooms were occupied by dealers in books, periodicals, and other literature. The bazaar was a great success, and the proceeds will be devoted to the support of the National Anti-Slavery Society.

NABOB OF AFRICA.

The case of the Nabob of Africa, a Dutch merchant, who was arrested in Boston on a charge of piracy, has been adjourned to Monday, Oct. 16th. The Nabob is accused of having taken possession of the ship "Mary Ann," which was lying at the dock, and of having murdered the crew. The case is of great importance, as it involves the question of the legality of the seizure of a foreign ship by a private individual.

A PROCTOR'S EXCUSE.

A Proctor for the Massachusetts Anti-Slavery Society, who was prevented from attending the meeting, wrote the following excuse:

 "I regret to inform you that I am unable to attend the meeting of the Massachusetts Anti-Slavery Society, scheduled for tomorrow, Oct. 15th. I have been called away on important business, and cannot be present.

 "I am sorry to have to make the trip to Boston, but I feel that it is my duty to attend to the business at hand. I trust that you will excuse my absence and understand the necessity for it.

 "I will do my best to attend the next meeting, and I hope that you will accept my apologies for not being present.

 "Sincerely yours,

 "[Signature]"

PROFESSOR COOK'S LECTURE.

Professor Cook, of the New York Anti-Slavery Society, delivered a lecture on "The Anti-Slavery Movement," at the Lyceum, Boston, on Saturday evening, Oct. 14th. The lecture was well attended, and the professor spoke with great force and ability. He referred to the anti-slavery movement in the United States, and discussed the various measures that have been taken to abolish slavery. He also spoke of the progress made in the anti-slavery movement, and predicted that slavery would soon be abolished in the United States.

THE MARCH ON WASHINGTON.

A meeting of the Massachusetts Anti-Slavery Society, held at the Park Row, Boston, on Saturday evening, Oct. 14th, decided to send a delegation to Washington, D.C., to participate in the "March on Washington." The delegation will consist of ten members, and will be led by a prominent anti-slavery leader. The meeting was well attended, and the members were enthusiastic in their support of the "March on Washington."