A ROAD CHAPLAIN IN THE NATION'S CAPITAL.

The new Transcontinental Railroad is gaining in favor among the people of the South. It is said that the railroad will be completed by the end of the year, and that it will be ready for use by the public in the spring of 1867.

The construction of the railroad is progressing rapidly, and the work is expected to be completed in about two years. The line will be laid down from the Mississippi River to the Pacific Ocean, and will form a direct link between the East and the West.

The railroad is being built by the Rock Island Line, a company which is well known for its ability to construct railroads quickly and efficiently. The company has a long history of building successful railroads, and has a reputation for being able to meet its deadlines.

The railroad will be a major asset to the South, providing a quick and easy way for people to travel from one place to another. It will also be a boon to the economy, as it will allow businesses to transport goods more quickly and easily.

The railroad will also be a great benefit to the people of the South, as it will provide them with a new source of income. Many people will be able to find jobs on the railroad, and the company is expected to hire many local residents.

The Transcontinental Railroad is a major project, and will require a great deal of work and resources. However, it is a project that is well worth the effort, as it will benefit the people of the South for generations to come.
