RESOLUTIONS OF OLD SOLDIERS.

Protesting Against Gettysburg Desecration and Deploiring Comrade Banes' Death.

Much indignation against the electric trolley railway company which is desecrating the line of the battle of Gettysburg was expressed last night by the twenty members of the Pennsylvania Reserve Association who attended its semiannual meeting in the red parlors of the Ebbitt House. A preamble and resolution was adopted, reciting that it is notorious that many historical features of the field of Gettysburg are being obliterated, and that the General Government has declared its inability to legally interpose and put a stop to this destruction.

The association then protests against desecration, and appeals to the patriotism of the authorities of our great State of Pennsylvania, of the borough of Gettysburg, and the Gettysburg Battle-field Association to interpose their power to suppress this apparent vandalism.

A resolution was also ordered spread on the minutes deploring the death of S. P. Banes, of the Third Pennsylvania Reserves, one of the Ford's Theater victims, "a brave and fearless representatives of the Pennsylvania citizen-soldier, to whom the missiles of the rebel foe were less deadly than the protection provided during his daily toils by the Government he so faithfully defended in war and served in peace."
