THE ADAMS SENTINEL AND GENERAL ADVERTISER.

A Day of Thanksgiving to Almighty Father, and the power of his Hand, equal in these trials.

THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

A PROCLAMATION.

It has pleased Almighty God to bestow peace and prosperity on the people of the United States. This event has been marked by a general concurrence of rejoicing throughout the land and the signal and unexampled intelligence of our friends in Europe. This is a time to celebrate with thanksgiving and joyful remembrance the great acts of Providence and the mighty works of his hand. We are called to give thanks to Almighty Father, the power of his Hand, equal in these trials.

By the President.

IN THE THOUSANDS OF THE THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY AND COLLEGE OF GETTYSBURG.

Dear Sir:-Our dear old town and friends, at this season of the end of the war, are rejoicing in the triumphs of the cause which has occupied our attention during the last few years. The city of Gettysburg has been the scene of many memorable events, and the inhabitants of the town for whom we have been praying are happy and contented. We are grateful to Almighty Father, the power of his Hand, equal in these trials.

The Fall of Port Royal.

By the fall of Port Royal, the Confederates lost their power of the fort, and by the fall of the Confederates at the end of the war, the continental government secured a port in two parts, which will enable them to send out provisions to their troops. The fall of Port Royal was the result of a series of events, which will be told in their proper place in the history. The fall of Port Royal was the result of a series of events, which will be told in their proper place in the history.

The real power of the Confederates, which was the possession of the mighty river, was now holding, and the fall of Port Royal was the result of a series of events, which will be told in their proper place in the history.

The victory at Port A...
We have just received word that a number of rebels were connected with the hospitals in this place, and were captured. We have been informed that the number of wounded in our hospitals is about 500, and that they are being treated with skill and kindness.

The town is full of queries as to the condition of the wounded, and the amount of the damage on which the city of the dead is based. It is one of the most exciting moments in the history of the country, as the enemy's artillery is constantly directed against us with a view of driving us from our position. The fighting has been at a standstill for several days, and the situation is critical.

The wounded soldiers are being treated with great care. They are being moved from one location to another daily. Some are transferred every day, and many are being moved to larger hospitals. The doctors and nurses are doing their best to save as many lives as possible.

The True and False Democracy.

We read the speeches of patriots, revolutionists, and demagogues, and while they have no word of commendation or encouragement for those who are engaged in fighting for the independence of the world, we find that they are replete with dissertation, disquisition, and disputation, and that the subject matter consists of the mere playing of the words. When such discourses are read, it is evident that there is little difference between them and the sermons of the Redeemer; the former would destroy the liberty of the studious by the book and the latter by open assault. The patriotic orator, in his desire to make his words comprehensible and to the mass of the people in their various forms, is often forced to use arguments which are not accepted by others. It is found, however, that the extent of such arguments is limited to the scope of the subject matter, and that the latter must be achieved before the people.

Three cheers for the great men of the Revolution.

CELEBRATED FALL PILL

Faced with the challenge of a new disease outbreak, doctors turned to the use of medicinal Fall Pills. These pills were said to be effective in treating a variety of ailments, including colds, flu, and other respiratory infections. The pills were advertised as being made from natural ingredients, and they were said to be safe and effective. The advertisement for Fall Pills mentions a warranty that ensures that the pills will work within 30 days, or the money will be refunded.
