Interesting Historical Facts — The year 1815, we are told, was the period of the historic great flood in France, the inundation of which caused great loss of life and property. The several floods that year in France were extensive, and the damage was great. The floods were caused by the overflowing of the rivers, which were swollen by the heavy rains that fell during the summer months. The damage was so great that the government was driven to take steps to control the floods.

The floods of 1815 were followed by a prolonged drought, which caused great suffering. The drought was so severe that the crops failed, and the people were starving. The government was forced to order the death of thousands of animals in order to relieve the situation.
