THE ADAMS SENTINEL AND GENERAL ADVERTISER.

GETTYSBURG,
Tuesday, October 3, 1863.

STATE TICKET.

Maj. Gen. JOHN F. HARRISTON,
Col. ROBERT P. RICHARDSON,
Capt. JOHN L. WARREN,
Capt. MORGAN F. PRICE,
Union County Ticket.

D. MACONNSHAY,
Lionel PHILIP. L. BOUKE,
JAY A. MILLER,
Lionel W. B. BAKER,
RANDELL WOLF,
SOLONSER,
J. B. WITTOEBURG.

The people of the United States are now in a critical state, and the fate of the Union hangs by a thread. The enemy is at the gates, and every man is called upon to do his duty.

The people of the United States are now in a critical state, and the fate of the Union hangs by a thread. The enemy is at the gates, and every man is called upon to do his duty.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE Potomac.

Meeting at Gettysburg.

On Saturday evening, there was a Union meeting held in the Foulke Hall, where several resolutions were adopted, including one in favor of the Union. The meeting was well attended, and the speeches were all in favor of the Union.

The people of the United States are now in a critical state, and the fate of the Union hangs by a thread. The enemy is at the gates, and every man is called upon to do his duty.

The people of the United States are now in a critical state, and the fate of the Union hangs by a thread. The enemy is at the gates, and every man is called upon to do his duty.

The people of the United States are now in a critical state, and the fate of the Union hangs by a thread. The enemy is at the gates, and every man is called upon to do his duty.

The people of the United States are now in a critical state, and the fate of the Union hangs by a thread. The enemy is at the gates, and every man is called upon to do his duty.

The people of the United States are now in a critical state, and the fate of the Union hangs by a thread. The enemy is at the gates, and every man is called upon to do his duty.

The people of the United States are now in a critical state, and the fate of the Union hangs by a thread. The enemy is at the gates, and every man is called upon to do his duty.

The people of the United States are now in a critical state, and the fate of the Union hangs by a thread. The enemy is at the gates, and every man is called upon to do his duty.

The people of the United States are now in a critical state, and the fate of the Union hangs by a thread. The enemy is at the gates, and every man is called upon to do his duty.

The people of the United States are now in a critical state, and the fate of the Union hangs by a thread. The enemy is at the gates, and every man is called upon to do his duty.

The people of the United States are now in a critical state, and the fate of the Union hangs by a thread. The enemy is at the gates, and every man is called upon to do his duty.